

Katie Smith, Anna Waugh and Brad Beaumont.

Jared Fitzclarence and Nick Parton.

Peter Dhu, Violet Dhu and Marg Bertling. Pictures, Alicia Perera

Sign-making business marks major milestone

■ Alicia Perera

Karratha and Districts Chamber of Commerce and Industry kicked off its 2018 events calendar last week with the first Business After Hours of the year.

About 80 business people attended the monthly networking event on Wednesday, which was hosted by sign-making business SignsWest in their large workshop in the Karratha LIA. SignsWest owner Tamara Heckingbottom said the business was celebrating 21 years of operation in 2018, and thanked her staff.

The team celebrated by sharing a custom-made 21st birthday cake and goodie bags with all guests. Act-Belong-Commit employee Lesley Murray was the winner of the business card draw, taking home a $500 SignsWest voucher.

New KDCCI chief executive Kyla Morrison also spoke to welcome 22 new members to the chamber and give an update on their main projects for the year, including doing more work with the Chamber of Minerals and Energy and promoting the co-working space.

Stewart Hautain and Todd McKay.

Trent Martin and Ryan Drechsler.

George Cook, Andre Blignaut, Richard Nauls and Brendon Grylls.

Alan Wigmore, Stephen Dennison and Kerry Bassett.

